REPORT

OF THE

TRUSTEES HAMPSTEAD PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The public library, although young in years, has already become an important factor in the education of the people. The books have been carefully selected and are generally read, and a wide field of thought is thus opened up to many whose means would permit of no other method of acquiring so much useful knowledge.

Although, perhaps, as many may not have taken out books as during the first two years, yet those who come are constant patrons week by week, and prove by their selections and their orderly manners their appreciation of the library as a source of recreation at least.

Two hundred and eight-nine persons have taken out 2,813 books during the library year of ninety-six days, making an average of twenty-nine books to each person, a more than good showing for a town where so many of the patrons live at a long distance from the library building.

One hundred and sixty-three new books have been added during the year just closed, most of which are new publications, and all of them by authors of well-established literary fame.

There are, all told, 1,035 books, and we find that their condition as to binding and covers is much better than in any previous year, another mark of their appreciation by their readers.

If it continues to grow as fast in the years to come as in the past year Hampstead will soon have a library of which it may justly be proud.

SCHOOL REPORT.

To the Citizens of Hampstead :

In accordance with the laws of the State of New Hampshire, the Board of Education respectfully submit the following as their report of the town schools for the past year :

- School District No. 1.—Annie B. Fitts, Nannie M. Morse.
2.—Dora E. Beale.
3.—Minnie C. Townsend, Annie B. Fitts.
4.—Alice B. Hazelton.
5.—Fanny B. Williams, Nannie M. Morse.
6.—Mary L. Emerson.
7.—Laura A. Bailey.

The work of the schools during the year, though not in all respects satisfactory, has shown much to commend. The teachers were all ladies of more or less experience, and some of them have evinced an aptness and thoroughness in their work which is very gratifying ; so that on the whole the results are all that could be expected under the present system.

We find some defects in this system which, with the co-operation of the parents, may be partially if not entirely removed.

To do good work in a school room there must be a systematic classification of pupils with reference to their actual knowledge. No teacher, however skilled, can in the six hours of each day accomplish all that may be done for her pupils unless she can so classify them as to be able to present, explain, and enforce each subject to several pupils at the same time, so that, as the class work goes on from day to day, the principle underlying the work becomes apparent to the pupils, and they learn to think and reason, and apply what they learn.

During the year written examinations have been given in Language and Arithmetic. In the latter branch, great defects were shown. Some pupils well advanced in this study were unable, without a book, or the help of the teacher, to perform correctly very simple examples in common and decimal fractions, and indeed, in the fundamental rules. This, we feel sure, is not wholly the fault of any teacher in this or any previous year, but is partly due to lack of training in mental arithmetic, and in part to the parents' desire that their children shall go over all the ground possible in a given time, without fully realizing that it is not the amount skimmed, but the actual knowledge and the mental power gained, that educates.

If when deficiencies are found in the child's previous work, the parent is willing he should go back and lay the foundation anew, then build surely, the future of our schools will show a superstructure of which we may well be proud.

During the year each school has been furnished with a "Language Chart," which supplements the Language Lessons, and much improvement has been apparent in the pupils' ability to express and write out their own ideas. In some of the schools, the abstracts written would do credit to older pupils in penmanship, spelling, punctuation, and expression.

We would call attention to the necessity of greater effort on the part of parents and pupils to prevent unnecessary absence and tardiness; also dismissals during the school sessions. The work goes on if the pupil is away, and the loss to him is seldom if ever made good.

During the last term, many pupils were detained from school by sickness, some of whose names would otherwise have been included in the "Roll of Honor."

The interest shown by parents and other friends during the year is very gratifying to the teachers and school board. It is hoped their co-operation and interest will continue, and their frequent presence in the schoolroom encourage and stimulate both teachers and pupils.
